

Curriculum Vitae

Christos Tsachris, LL.M.

Christos Tsachris obtained the LLB and the LLM in Private International Law from Democritus University of Thrace-Faculty of Law and the Certificate in Peace and Reconciliation Studies from Coventry University-Center for Peace and Reconciliation Studies.

He is currently a PhD candidate in the field of International Criminal Law at Democritus University of Thrace-Faculty of Law and also attending the MSc in Sociology of Law distance-learning program at Lund University-Faculty of Social Sciences.

His professional background consists of both legal and educational practice. He has worked as an attorney-at-law in Greece and has lectured Constitutional and International Law at the Hellenic Army NCOs Academy and Procedural Criminal Law at the Hellenic Police Academy. Currently, he serves as a judge at the Judicial Corps of the Hellenic Armed Forces and as a visiting instructor of International Law at the Hellenic Multinational Peace Support Operations Training Center.

He holds an award for excellence in Public Law by the "N. Stasinopoulos Institution for Administrative Law" and is a member of the "Hellenic Union of Military Judges" and the "International Society for Military Law and the Law of War".

He speaks Greek, English and French and his primary research interests lie in IHL, international criminal law, human rights and peace support operations.